

Switch to RiverWood Bank with these 4 simple steps.

Use this checklist to organize and track the changing of your direct deposits and any reoccurring payments to your RiverWood Bank checking account.

Important information you'll need to make the switch to a RiverWood Bank checking account:

Bank routing transit number (RTN): This is the nine-digit number on the bottom left-hand corner of your checks, to the left of your account number.

Account number: This 10 digit number is unique to your account. You will need it to set up direct deposits or payments.

1. Open your new account at RiverWood Bank.

2. Switch your direct deposits and other automatic deposits.

- You'll need your account number and routing number. Some companies also require a voided check.

For bills that are not deducted from your account on a recurring basis, pay your bills with RiverWood Bank Bill Pay. A form is available to make requesting this change easy.
